

Marvin Gives Back

Everyone, meet Marvin. Marvin is a huge asset to our Memory Care unit. Before retirement, Marv was a minister and spent a lot of time encouraging others. Marvin still does that today with the other residents in Memory Care.

Parker Place learned that Marvin used to love spending his free time volunteering and giving back to his community and surrounding communities. Parker Place wanted to help Marvin have that experience again, so we loaded him up, along with several lunches, and headed to our local daycare.

When Marvin walked in, several kids shouted his name, ran up, and gave him hugs. Marvin then gave each student a sandwich, watermelon, and chips. Marvin ate lunch with the kids and had a huge smile on his face. Marv even picked up a special treat for the kids and handed out cookies for dessert. The kids all screamed with excitement!

Once we finished our lunch outing, the kids begged Marvin to come back soon! Then, Parker Place took Marv to get his favorite treat, a nice hot cup of coffee!

Marvin said “[taking meals to the kids] really made his day,” and he “felt like he had a purpose again!”
